"Damaged Lives" Showing At Capitol Theatre

The Canadian Social Hygiene Council will bring "Damaged Lives" to Raymond, Alta. at the Capitol Theatre on April 23rd and 24th. With the picture there will be added a lecture dealing with the anatomy and physiology of reproduction and giving detailed information as to the technical aspects of Venereal Diseases.

The Canadian Social Hygiene Council is a national association carrying on health education work in all phases of health throughout the whole of Canada. The Council has as its aim the emphasizing of the need for prevention in order that the extremely high costs of unnecessary illness throughout the Dominion may be avoided, while the cost of the Great War was approximately 400 million dollars a year for four years, the cost of illness in Canada, including the cost of postponable death, is estimated to reach more than three times this amount every year, namely $1,311,000,000. The Council's publications state that 180,000 people (2% of the entire population) are constantly ill and unable to work. The Council has taken an interest in such matters as pasteurization of milk, prevention of diphtheria, periodic health examination and the establishment of County Health Units.

The Council was responsible ten years ago for the establishment of the first grants for health purposes to be made to the Provinces, namely the Venereal Disease grants amounting to as much as $200,000 a year. These grants have been given continuously until last year when the grant of $100,000 for the support of Venereal Disease clinics was withdrawn from the Dominion estimates, in addition to the grant for the Council's own activities.

It was hoped that a grant of $200,000 would be made by the Dominion Government to the Provinces for the establishment of County Health Units. This grant has not materialized as yet owing to the depression.

The Council emphasizes the fact of high, unnecessary hospital costs. The statement is made that in the Venereal Disease field alone, largely because of the intensive work of the last ten years by the Council, a great many hospital beds which were filled because of the end results of Syphilis have been freed. General Paralysis of the ophthalmic, bone syphilis, blindness Insane, heart disease, early congenital syphilis are some of the results of the spread of these diseases which have diminished in virulence very markedly since this work was commenced ten years ago.

The film "Damaged Lives," with its supplementary lecture, constitutes a remarkable example of the extent to which the education of the people is possible.

"DAMAGED LIVES" constitutes a part of the educational programme for the eradication of Venereal Diseases carried on by the Canadian Social Hygiene Council throughout Canada.

The official patrons of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council are Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough. For the showing of "Damaged Lives" the following in addition have extended their Patronage:

News Notes

Remember Ladies FREE Chinaware Friday night.

The Lethbridge "Y" Circus recently presented in Lethbridge, will be put on here next Friday night. Watch for details.

A special Council meeting was held Monday night to finish up the business held over from the regular meeting of Tuesday night last.

Coming next week a return engagement of that famous Col. or Silly Symphony "THREE LITTLE PIGS."

Mrs. H. H. Kimball is in the Lethbridge Hospital following an operation for appendicitis. She is doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Rex Meeks was operated on last week and is doing as well as can be expected. She will likely be home by the time this appears in print.

Work is progressing nicely on the new home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McKean and family in the Citizens Lumber Co. yard here.

A mighty Adult theme now comes to the screen "DAMAGED LIVES" Capitol next Monday and Tuesday. Ladies only Monday Men only Tuesday.

Karl Grunlech and family moved into their new home Monday of this week. Karl and Fritz have worked long and hard to get their new place.

Rev. and Mrs. H. D. Riggs of New Dayton were here for Sunday and held services in the United Church, and returned to their home Monday morning.

Quite heavy frosts were noticed Saturday and again Sunday night. Ice between 1/2 and 1 inch thick froze on tubs outside Saturday night.

Next Sunday evening the Genealogical Committee of the Wards will have charge of the meetings, and good programs are prepared for the evening.

"Lee" is giving away a Westinghouse Electric Radio on May 5th. Tickets on this fine gift will be started over the week-end. If you want a real prize you should get three or four chances on this wonderful prize.

The fire engine was called out Tuesday afternoon to the barn of L. McPhee on the east side of Broadway, where kids & matches accounted for the destruction of the small lean-to barn and a stack of hay. Quick work on the part of the brigade saved a small building on the lot of W. T. Barratt, where some furniture was stored, and confined the blaze to the barn, in view of the velocity of the wind the firemen are to be congratulated on their effective work.

"Province" Ousts "Union Jacks"

Taking two straight from the Raymond Jacks, by a 41-34 score, the Vancouver "Province" basketballers won the right to go into the Dominion finals to meet the Manitoba champions as representatives of the west.

The game was a fight from start. The "Jacks" poured all they had into it, in an endeavor to stretch the game to three and if possible to win the series, & they battled so hard that they left the floor at the half-way mark with a one point lead, the play through the first half of the second half was quite even, but in the last ten minutes it swung to Vancouver, and despite the efforts of the local crew, they couldn't put the winning punch into the fray. If they could have scored on their free shots it would have been a more even score, but these gratis heaves went wild, and did not count.

There was one consolation in the game, and that was that the visitors had a sample of the kind of playing that has made the Jacks four times champions of Alberta, and left the town with a real regard for the prowess of a hard and smooth working machine.

As was the case Wednesday Jacks—Kirkham, 11; O'Brien, 12; Fairbanks, 4; Nilsson, 7; the battle line of the "Province" Rolison, 0; West, 0; Nalder, 0. Total 34.

break by Red McDonnell, who can slip the goobon through the hemp about as easily as any one could wish for and with deadly precision from any angle.

The Jacks were fighting, every one of them from the first whistle. O'Brien played one of the finest games of the winter, and was supporting Sam and Reed on every play on the front end, and Dean and Donny were all over the floor and were checking, and passing almost to perfection all evening.

One point in favor of the visitors was the number and frequent use of their subs, which against the regulars of the Jacks outwinded them some, and made it impossible for the Jacks to keep up the pace they held for three-fourths of the game. It was a great game, and we have a great Basketball team to which any of the visitors who layed against them will agree. Better luck next year.

WEEKLY LETTER

The scarcity of feed throughout the areas of Southern Alberta that were so hard hit by drought last season, and the two or three years previous, presents a trying and burdensome problem that is adding greatly to the difficulties of spring work. There is promise of early grass and feed is being shipped into some districts to provide for immediate needs, but the present feed shortage cannot be fully relieved until a new crop is produced. For this reason farmers in this feed shortage area will be anxious to bring some pasture crop in to production as soon as possible and for this week's letter your writer has obtained some information on the pasture crops that are considered best suited to meet the present emergency.

Crops best suited to meet this situation, which calls for an early annual pasture, include mainly fall rye, fall wheat and oats. At both the Lethbridge and Swift Current stations these grains have been found quite satisfactory for both pasture and hay and they are the easiest to grow where moisture is limited. In fact under dry land conditions these grains when used as fodder crops have yielded much heavier than grasses and legumes. Moreover no extra equipment is needed to seed or harvest them and the larger seeds can be sown deep enough to obtain ready germination while the surface of the soil can be left lumpy to check drifting. Another advantage of fall wheat and fall rye is that these may be seeded any time in the early spring in the summer or fall.

Higher yields of better quality feed are obtained by using a mixture of at least two crops such as fall rye 1/2 bushel and oats 1 bushel per acre, or fall wheat and oats. If available more grains may be used, and following is a mixture recommended by W. D. Hay, Cerealists at this station: fall rye 15 pounds per acre, fall wheat 15 pounds, oats 15 pounds, spring wheat 10 pounds and barley 10 pounds per acre. A mixture such as this adds plenty of variety and also has the advantage of utilizing a wide assortment of seeds that may be available on the farm. On the other hand fewer grains will give very satisfactory results though either fall rye or fall wheat, or both, should make up the bulk of the mixture.

Barley comes up quickly but it makes little or no second growth after being once eaten off; Spring wheat is a little better in this regard, whereas fall rye, fall wheat and oats all keep on making new growth when pastured providing of course the soil does not get too dry. Fall rye has long been highly regarded as a valuable annual pasture and hay crop. It provides early spring pasture if seeded the year before and summer and fall pasture when seeded in the spring. Fall wheat compares very well with fall rye and is somewhat more palatable.

Annual fodder crops are not to be recommended in place of perennial hay and pasture crops in areas of more favourable rainfall or where irrigation is available, excepting in cases of emergency as at present, but as fall rye, fall wheat and some of the coarse grains are undoubtedly the surest crops and of-

W. I. MEETING HELD

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held Thursday April 12th, at the home of Mrs. Thos. Allan.

Mr. A. E. Palmer, of the Lethbridge Experimental Farm was the guest speaker of the afternoon, and his subject was "Beautifying Home Surroundings." He stressed the problem of the large lot, and suggested planting of perennials and lawns, rather than annuals, which require so much more time.

Mrs. C. Nilsson gave a Musical Reading, and Mrs. J. H. Ford gave a talk on "Saskatchewan." All the numbers were greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. A. W. Kirkham assisted Mrs. Allan in serving a delicious lunch.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Honoring the 65th birthday of Pres. O. H. Snow, members and friends of the family, filling three cars, journeyed to the Temple Wednesday last and spent the day in dance work performing 37 endowments, and sealings of couples, and 'child ren on the family line.

At noon a delicious luncheon was enjoyed in the lunch room of the Temple, when Mrs. Golden Snow surprised them all with a beautiful cake decorated with 65 candles. Everyone enjoyed the day so much that it was decided to make it an annual affair.

Honoring the 74th birthday of E. J. Hutchison, an enjoyable birthday party sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Coombs, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Perks, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Smith and Mrs. Burrows, was held at the Hutchison home. 18 were present and the evening was enjoyed in games and refreshments, and the guest of honor received many congratulations and expressions of good-will.

Weldon Bascom returned home last week-end after three months at the B.Y.U. in Provo. Weldon enjoyed his studies immensely, states that the other Albertans there are doing fine and will be home in June after the spring term.

In the exhibition game between Lethbridge and Vancouver "Province" Saturday evening last, the coast team took the game by a score of 48-44. 200 fans watched the game which was reported as very interesting.

The two prisoners who escaped last week from the Lethbridge jail road gang were at large Monday night and were believed to be in the Taber district, which district was being carefully combed by the police.

Vera—"You wouldn't advise me to marry a liar, would you?"
Victoria—"Yes, dear, I would—unless you want to be an old maid."

Jack Hervey returned last week from a trip to Edmonton and district where his mother, who is over 90 years of age is living. Jack reports a nice trip and an enjoyable visit, but the country does not appeal to him like Southern Alberta does. They drove through a heavy snowstorm part of the way back.

For it seems the most dependable means of providing pasture and hay feeds.

The regular monthly meeting of the Raymond Rotary Outpost was held in the United Church on Wednesday, April 18th, at 1 p.m. with a full attendance of members and three new ones to join.

The Ladies Aid did the catering, and next to eating at home, the boys would rather eat at the Rotary luncheon than any other place. A splendid spread of vegetables, roast beef and all the trimmings, and three or four kinds of pie to top off on were spread before the crowd, and everyone present done full justice to their allotment.

The members of the "Idlers" team were present, as guests of the Rotary, in appreciation of their winning the Intermediate Provincial championship and were all introduced to the crowd.

The guest speaker was Rotarian Jack Hutchings of Lethbridge who gave a very interesting talk on 'Ethics in Business' which gave everyone something to think over in connection with dealing with their fellow-men.

T. G. Wood had charge of the meeting, as President, and J. O. Hicken, Secretary read the Constitution and by-law for the benefit of the members.

Other members were President E. E. Eishenauer and Secretary F. J. Wilkins of the Lethbridge Club.

OGEMA TIMES DESTROYED BY FIRE

Word was received Saturday forenoon in a telegram, that a fire Friday night had completely destroyed the plant of the Ogema (Sask.) Times, owned and operated by Glen Woolley, who was assisted by Allan Weaver.

This is about all the information that has so far been received. One press was saved from the fire, but that was so badly damaged that it might about as well have been burned with the rest of the equipment, a letter stated.

Glen is starting up again, having purchased another plant and will be publishing again soon.

We extend our sympathies to the losers in their disaster, and commend them for their courage in starting up again, and feel sure their efforts will succeed.

Our FREE Chinaware starts Friday night of this week.

Beet drilling has been pushed all week, and a big acreage has been seeded. The heavy winds part of the week have made this work rather disagreeable for those operating the drills.

THE STRAY POUND QUESTION

Again we have the annual question with us of cows and horses running at large on the streets, and making themselves a nuisance to the property owners who are endeavoring to beautify the town by growing lawns and trees on the boulevards adjoining their homes.

People are reluctant about planting lawns, trees, shrubs, etc., nourishing them and getting them growing nicely, only to have them walked on and broken off by stock, allowed to pasture on the streets, and to wander around without anyone watching them and keeping them from damaging property.

The Council has given strict orders to stray pound everything loose on the streets, and to follow up the stray pounding continually throughout the year. Don't think the Council and the Constable don't have a problem on their hands. There are plenty of streets in the town covered with nice grass, and if some one's cow doesn't pasture it off, it grows rank and rots away and dies. Somebody's cow ought to eat it. To be sure, but whose cow will it be, and will she be herded on the street where the grass grows, or will she be turned loose to wander wherever she chooses to become a nuisance to neighbors, and a cause of discontent, and then when she is stray pounded be the cause of hot words between owner and the Town Constable because she has been impounded.

Then too, there are widows who need the cow to help keep their families, and can't afford to pay pasturage. Well, your neighbor says he can't afford to pasture her for you, and there is no gainsaying that cows on the streets are a fact—or against tidy, beautiful, well-kept streets and boulevards.

The Council, it seems, have taken the only sensible view of the matter, and that is, if you keep cows you must take care of them or else take the consequences, if they are impounded, pay the bill, and keep still about it, and if you feel you are being treated unfairly go to the Council with your complaint. They are used to hearing them and they will listen to you whether you gain anything or not.

Then too, you have a perfect right to stray pound any stock that bothers you, and if you do your part to the full, it is likely other people will too.

HEALTH

BELOW PAR

The human family can be divided into those who are sick and those who are well, but such a sweeping division ignores the various grades of health. Obviously, those who are suffering from actual disease are not healthy, but among those who are free from disease, there are a vast number who do not enjoy health.

Health has been described as the harmonious working of all parts of the body. Loss of harmony means loss of health, and when discord occurs we have disease. A certain level of health is par. This level is not the same for any two individuals because no two individuals are born with the same physical and mental capacities.

When we say that a man is physically below par, we mean that he has fallen below the health level which he can and should maintain. This loss of health usually occurs gradually. There are certain diseases which strike suddenly, but most diseases are insidious in their onset and, for that reason, the term "below par" should be accepted as a warning of the possible onset of disease.

One of the common symptoms of declining health is fatigue. The individual may say that he has lost his pep, or that he is always tired, or that he feels "all in". Everyone experiences fatigue, but can overcome it by rest. It is the chronic or the unusual fatigue which should be looked into.

The person who has not had his physical condition checked in this manner assumes the serious responsibility for his own health of noticing any condition which suggests that his health is slipping away from him and of securing treatment before serious harm results. Unfortunately, we are apt to find some ready excuse for the below par feeling, and so go on in a false sense of security, thus losing the precious time when treatment might be most helpful.

Early adequate treatment is always best because it is the most effective, and it is always the least expensive in the long run.

What About Social Credit in Canada?

This series is an explanation of the Douglas Social Credit Plan. Mr. Williams, (W.) a Social Credit advocate, is explaining the plan to his friend, Mr. Jones (J.). The scene is Mr. Williams' home, and the conversation takes place during an evening visit.

By following this series to the conclusion the reader will clearly understand the problem which faces Canada.

NUMBER 10

W. "You have fallen into the same error that has misled many other students. That is the velocity of circulation fallacy. You seem to think that if a dollar circulates fast enough it will cause more goods to be consumed. You forget that one dollar will pay only one dollar's worth of costs."

J. "But I can take a dollar and buy a tie from the Men's Store and the manager can take that dollar and buy some meat from the butcher and the butcher can give the dollar to his wife and she can go to the Ladies Shop and buy herself a pair of stockings. So there are three different lots of goods consumed because one dollar circled."

W. "Well, you are still muddled if you think that. The only person in your chain that is better off, from the trade standpoint, is the Ladies Shop."

J. "Why?"

W. "Because according to your illustration they have the final custody of the dollar which means that they can pay for the stockings if they bought them on credit, or if they are already paid for, they can replace them, and in either case retain a certain percentage for profit and expenses."

But where is the butcher going to get the money to pay the meat packing house for the meat? Or where is the Men's Store going to get the money to pay the tie manufacturer for the tie?

J. "But they may have been paid for already?"

W. "Suppose they were paid for is the Men's Store going out of business, and does not your butcher have to buy any more meat?"

If you are a merchant and take money from the till to buy personal wants you can't use that same money to pay business debts — for the simple reason that you haven't got it."

J. "It seems as if I have been astray on a lot of things."

W. "Well, you can see how absurd that velocity of circulation fallacy is if you follow it to the logical conclusion. That is, that if one dollar only circulated fast enough all the business of the country could be transacted by it. However, even at the risk of causing you to forget our discussion of the flaw I must draw your attention to a velocity of circulation theory that is correct."

J. "And what is that?"

W. "The complete circuit of money from bank to industry to consumer to shopkeeper to industry to bank. Suppose it takes $10,000 to finance a certain programme of production. If the goods could be sold immediately, the bank loan repaid and the loans again advanced, the volume of goods consumed would depend on how many times the cycle could be repeated in the year. If the goods could be produced, sold, and the loan reissued every three months you would move $40,000 of goods in twelve months. If it could be done in two months for each cycle the amount distributed would be $60,000 worth. But no matter how fast a dollar scurries around out in the business world it does not get any more goods consumed than one dollar's worth and it does not pay off debts until it returns to the banking system. In your illustration a few minutes ago what would really happen is this:

You would buy a tie from the Men's Store for one dollar. They would keep eighty cents to pay the wholesaler and other selling expenses in connection with the tie, and would use the twenty cents profit to buy meat at the butcher's. Out of the twenty cents the butcher received he would be able to consider five cents as profit and this he would give to his wife. Instead of a pair of stockings she would be able to get a spool of thread at the Ladies Shop and —

J. "And out of that the Ladies Shop would probably have enough profit to buy a one cent stamp from the government! Ha! Ha!"

W. "Well, now you sound as if you have grasped the situation."

J. "That explanation has helped a lot. But I've heard eminent men talk the same way so that you can't blame a poor layman for not knowing any better."

"Some of these 'eminent men' have a lot to answer for but more and more they are being debunked and found out."

J. "Well, let's get on with Social Credit. What's Douglas going to do about all this?"

IDEA FOR AN INCOME-TAX RETURN

(H.I. Phillips in the Chicago Daily News)

U.S. Treasury Dept., Washington, D.C.

Gents: — The inclosed form, on which I am asked to make a record of my income for the last fiscal year, is returned to you with my kind respects and my deepest appreciation of this subtle form of flattery. I was particularly impressed by its resurrection of old forms and figures of English speech such as "compensation from outside sources," "net profit received," "income from rents," "interest on bank deposits," etc.

One question I got a great laugh out of was "Were you during the taxable year supporting in your household one or more persons closely related to you?" Boy, that's a honey!

Say, Mister Secretary, you would be surprised. There are so many persons closely related to me staying over at my house that I'm what you would call surrounded. Only the other day three more distant cousins of my wife's blew in, making a new high for the movement. And one of them brought a friend!

For the last four years my house has been full of strangers, all claiming to be my cousins or aunts or something. I can't identify half of them, and what burned me up was when my wife's Uncle Jerry, who has been living with us a year, slapped me on the back the other day and asked, "Haven't I seen you some place before?"

The blank says it will allow me $400 for each dependent relative and I would say the government is over-pricing them as I would trade the entire lot for $11 and throw in a pair of bicycle pants and a magic lantern. (Two of my wife's aunts you can have for the asking.)

Heigh-ho and alackaday! The blank also asks me to describe your business as provided in item 2, and I am glad to answer. Lousy, Mister Secretary, lousy. And it asks me to "enter on Line 1 of Schedule A my total receipts for 1933." I wish you would stop joking Mr. Secretary. Fun is fun, but enough is enough and you can carry anything too far.

Then you say something about allowance for "obsessiveness, depletion and depreciation. That's where I come in. As an American business man, I am depleted, deflated, depressed, denatured, denounced, deranged and dejected. I am despondent, despairing, denuded, debunked and dehydrated. And so is my old man. Yours in a barrel,

Elmer Twitchell.

A picture made by men for Women. "LOST PATROL" Capitol Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McKean were Lethbridge visitors Saturday afternoon.

Everyone is busy these days and Raymond's unemployment problem is not a very serious one these days at least.

Wm Lowden, Tip-Top-Tailor representative was at the Broadway Store, and took orders for a nice number of new suits.

Miss Necia King returned home last Thursday, after spending the winter in Provo and Salt Lake City with relatives.

The cold wind Saturday afternoon made an overcoat feel good and then you did not want to stay out any longer than necessary.

TOOK PILLS FOR YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been dosing myself with pills and other dopes for constipation."

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months." — Thos. F. Little (address furnished upon request).

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness — any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Monday was one of the pleasant days of spring with the warm sunshine, and only a light breeze, it was real nice and pleasant.

Cecil Finch is off work from the factory this week as a result of tearing and spraining some of the muscles in his back last Saturday. He expects to get to work again Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Walker and Louis King went to Calgary Friday, were Messrs Compton and Walker took delivery of a new 1934 V8 Sedan each, and drove them home, arriving back here Sunday. The new cars are certainly lovely ones, and the new owners are proud of their acquisition.

News Notes

Lyman Turner, et al of March was here Thursday.

There will likely be a heavy business in the marriage license bureaus of Italy, following the decision of the Government to tax every bachelor 50% of his income. Single blessedness is not so good there, eh?

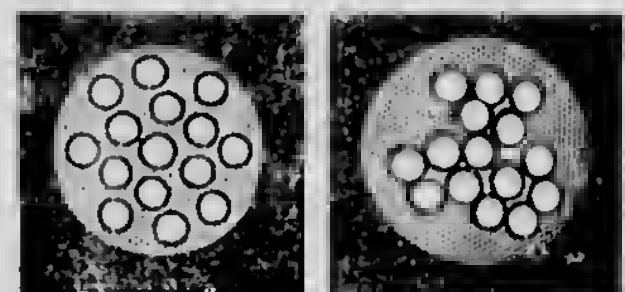

Elders James S. Anderson and Arthur Dahl were the speakers at the Raymond 2nd Ward Sacrament Meeting on Sunday evening. Two little Schneider girls sang a nice duet, singing "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam."

Elder Isaac Roberts returned Thursday from his two years labor in the mission field, and reports a very enjoyable and busy time. He was a speaker at Welton on Sunday afternoon in company with Elder Weldon Bascom, and also spoke in the First Ward Sunday night in conjunction with Pres. H. S. Allen who reported the recent Conference in Salt Lake City, which he attended.

the "Model T" and gear-shift periods to the "teardrop-streamline" age—and what beyond?

But the question that presents itself now is, "Will the archaeologist of 3419 be required by law to show his junkman's license, or will the junkman of the same date elevate his career by calling it archaeology?" Today's trend would indicate the latter, for even the energetic press agent now calls himself "director of public relations," while the janitor has evolved through the various stages to become "building superintendent."

Only Firestone has SAFE-T-LOCKED CORDS

Safe-T-Locked Cord Ordinary Cord

Compare The Difference

Look at these two highly magnified cords. The small circles represent strands and the shaded area rubber.

Note in a Safe-T-Locked cord every strand is completely surrounded and locked in place by rubber. In the ordinary cord, note how the strands are crowded together and the area between them left unprotected by rubber.

The Gum-Dipped, Safe-T-Locking process is one of the reasons why Firestone tires give 25 to 40% extra tire life—at no extra cost. Equip with these safer, more economical tires that are guaranteed for one year. See the nearest Firestone Dealer today.

Notice to Parents

Parents are requested to co-operate with officers of the law in keeping boys and girls from riding on their bicycles on the sidewalks. This offence is punishable by law.

From date of this notice, anyone found riding their bicycles on the sidewalks of the Town of Raymond will be prosecuted under the by-law governing this practice.

THE RAGGEDY-MAN

(Christian Science Monitor)

Archeology, like nearly every field of research, has a "file" a "pie" into which the little Jack Harners of that science insert their thumbs and withdraw the plums. A few days ago, Harvard University archeologists announced that they have no fewer than 2,000 "plums" all located within the boundaries of Yugoslavia, or to use their language, they have plotted 2,000 archeological sites, each of which may bring to light trinkets and information revealing how the peoples of prehistoric Danubian cultures lived. These diggers in the dirt spend many years and many dollars in college and university training before they begin the intricate task of uncovering prehistoric dump heaps, where discarded utensils of past generations lie buried.

Perhaps in 3419 A.D. some curious person with a whimsical bent will seek the shards of the carelessly discarded today—seek to "restore" with camel's hair brushes, shellac and plaster of Paris. But the future archaeologist will not be without his problems, for already robbers are at work on the "treasure-trove" of today's dumps, salvaging the brass and copper bits of this and that, removing the unbroken glass bottles, old rags and clean newspapers. We call them "junkmen," but their livelihood parallels that of the archaeologist, depending on what they can find that is interesting perhaps even of use or value.

Imagine how tickled these research men of the future will be to find an old tomato can that's whole, or in "fair state of preservation." Think of the theories to be expounded on how we opened them, all the way from key method and crank type to the chef's deft meat cleaver.

How will the researchers of 3419 explain the once serviceable umbrella? Doubtless twentieth century progress will be labeled according to unearthed automobile chassis, steers being illustrated as passing from the "Apperson Jack-Rabbit" and to "Stanley Steamer" eras through
